Abstract

Introduction

Homoeopathic paediatrics is the emerging field of homoeopathy. As a homoeopathic paediatric physician our aim should be to restore the sick children to health, to cure as early as possible. In this case series we wish to present the scope of Homoeopathic medicine in Nocturnal enuresis. This common paediatric condition is not life threatening but it develops some psychological and emotional stress in the children suffering from primary nocturnal enuresis.

Enuresis is defined as voluntary or involuntary repeated discharge of urine in cloths or on bed after developmental age when bladder control should have
