A Single Blind Parallel Arm Randomized Placebo Controlled Clinical Study to Assess the Effectiveness of Homoeopathic Medicines with Physiotherapy in Cases of Chronic Low Back Pain of Musculoskeletal Origin

(Advancements in Homeopathic Research, Vol. 9 No.2, May 2024-July 2024, Date of Publication 2024/05/01, Pages no. 40-47
ISSN : 2456-3668 (Print) // EISSN : 2583-5661 (Online) DOI : 10.48165/ ahr.2024.9.2.7)

Dr. Anjana Kumari[1], Dr. Ruchi Singh[2], Dr. Heena Rawal[3]
[1]Assistant Professor, Nootan Homoeopathy Medical college & Hospital, Gujarat
[2]PhD Scholar Parul University, Prof. Dr MPK Homoeopathic Medical College Hospital & Research Centre Jaipur, Rajasthan
[3]Director, Ahmedabad Homoeopathic Medical College, Ahmedabad, Parul University, Gujarat.
Corresponding Author:
Dr. Ruchi Singh
Dr MPK Homoeopathic Medical College Hospital & Research Centre Jaipur, Rajasthan

Abstract

Background

Chronic low back pain is common problem worldwide. Low back pain is pain, muscle tension, or stiffness and chronicmpersists for twelve weeks.

Objectives

1. To assess the effectiveness of “homoeopathic medicines with physiotherapy” as compared to “placebo with physiotherapy” for pain management in cases of chronic low back pain of Musculoskeletal Origin on the basis of the Pain Numeric Pain Rating Scale.
2. To assess the effectiveness of “homoeopathic medicines with physiotherapy” as compared to “placebo with physiotherapy” for pain management in cases of chronic low back pain of Musculoskeletal Origin on the basis of Questionnaire (RMQ).
3. To ascertain the predominant miasm in cases of chronic low back pain of Musculoskeletal Origin.